Upcoming New RISE FOA

• Current FOA expires in May 2018

• New FOA to be published in Fall 2018
  – New FOA will be developed based on program outcomes.

• PD assistance is needed
  – Students long-term accomplishments
  – Accurate and complete data in tables
  – Complete reporting of publications
Students long-term accomplishments

• Important to inform students of their long-term commitment to provide information to the program.

• Information about students future accomplishments (Positions in industry, government, academia, fellowships/internships, postdoctoral positions, faculty appointments, grants obtained) is important for program evaluation.
Publications

• Publications with RISE students as authors need to be reported in My Bibliography in My NCBI

• If publications are not reported they do not show up in NIH database resulting in negative program evaluation results

- Likely due to the appointment of students for two years.
- Second possibility - Slots not been used.
- Need to differentiate between the two possibilities
- Using slots and not individuals will result in lower graduation rates and a negative program evaluation.
